

COP15 mobilizations

Thursday, 17 September 2009

Copenhagen, Denmark

07-18th December

www.climate-justice-action.org

The UN climate talks will not solve the climate crisis. Emissions are rising faster than ever, while carbon trading allows climate criminals to pollute and profit. In response to this madness, a global movement for climate justice has emerged to reclaim power over our future. As part of this, the international network Climate Justice Action is mobilising tens of thousands of people across the world to take action during the international climate negotiations in Copenhagen in December 2009